INFORMATION RETRIEVAL POSTDOC POSITION AVAILABLE AT THE UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

The Computational Linguistics and Information Processing (CLIP) Laboratory at the University of Maryland is looking for a talented and productive postdoc to collaborate with us on problems related to cross-language information retrieval from text and speech.

CLIP is an interdisciplinary research group based at the University of Maryland, located just outside of Washington, D.C.

CLIP faculty have tenure track appointments in the Department of Computer Science and the Department of Linguistics, as well as the College of Information Studies (Maryland's iSchool), and the Robert H. Smith School of Business.

The University of Maryland is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, complies with all applicable federal and state laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination and affirmative action; all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment. The University is committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all persons and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, physical or mental disability, protected veteran status, age, gender identity or expression, sexual orientation, creed, marital status, political affiliation, personal appearance, or on the basis of rights secured by the First Amendment, in all aspects of employment, educational programs and activities, and admissions.

You must have a Ph.D. in computer science, information studies or equivalent. Research experience in information retrieval, machine translation, summarization or speech processing is desirable.

We offer competitive salaries, excellent benefits, and a collegial working environment. We are committed to a diverse and inclusive work environment, and hope to receive a broad range of applications. To apply, send your CV, research statement, the one research paper you are most proud of, and contact information for three references to Doug Oard (oard@umd.edu).
